

In the many years that I played international chess by mail, I have managed to collect a large number of articles kindly sent to me by my various opponents.

I had recently decided to digitize a number of these article for my own use and certainly when Gary's call came through for more contributions for the newsletter, the opportunity presented itself.

While I had already processed a good portion of one of these articles, some historical research on Brentano's attack in the Lopez taken from a Myers Opening Bulletin, it struck me that it might not be all that legal to simply pass on anothers hard work (and besides I don't think it would be good form to do as such either) even with the best of intentions.

Through the flash bang whizzo capabilities of the internet, I managed to get hold of the author of the article concerned, Mr. Gerard Welling, and not only did he give permission for said article to be reproduced but he provided a cleaned up version as well. What follows is a compilation of the original file (which in itself contains a number of ideas by Hugh Myers) and the corrected file, both being compiled from "Wiener Schachzeitung" 1900-1903 and "Deutsche Schzeitung" 1900-1901. The original article appeared in "The New Myers Opening Bulletin Number 6".
